

Certification in Infection Prevention and Control: Certification is Commitment

Date: Wednesday, March 8, 2017

Duration: 1 hour

The Certification Board of Infection Control and Epidemiology, Inc. (CBIC) administers the examination for certification in infection prevention and control (CIC®). Join the 2017 CBIC Board President Lita Jo Henman, MPH, CIC for this webinar on the CIC® credential. Topics of the presentation include an in-depth explanation of the certification process, recertification and helpful tools and resources that CBIC has created for individuals and chapters.

Biography

Lita Jo is the system manager for infection prevention at OhioHealth in Columbus, Ohio. OhioHealth is a system of 10 hospitals with 2,400 inpatient beds, 2 free standing Emergency Departments, 12 Urgent Care Centers and 200 ambulatory sites serving over half the counties in Ohio. In her spare time, she provides infection prevention consultation services to an ambulatory urology group that delivers services in 17 states. Her background is in clinical laboratory, microbiology and public health. Lita Jo has the honor to serve on the State of Ohio Infection Control Advisory Group. This group provides expert recommendations on HAI mandatory public reporting. Her husband (Alan) and her have three grown sons and were empty nesters for about a minute until the youngest one moved back in. The highlight of her weekend is running after my very mobile toddler granddaughter, Evelyn. Lita Jo enjoys reading and any place that involves sunshine and a beach. She loves the outdoors and thinks wireless internet access is the best thing ever invented. If it is above 50° F you'll likely find Lita Jo, computer in hand, working outside on her front porch.
