

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES SEEKING APPOINTMENT TO EDITORIAL BOARD OF CANADIAN JOURNAL OF INFECTION CONTROL

The Canadian Journal of Infection Control (CJIC) is seeking new candidates to complete the current CJIC Editorial Board. The responsibility of the Editorial Board is to critique submitted articles and return the evaluation to the Editor-in-Chief within the established time lines. There are usually four journal issues per year. It is anticipated that, on average, each Editorial Board member may review one to three submissions per year.

The term of the Editorial Board is three years. The new Editorial Board member will have a term expiring December 31, 2020. Following appointment, each successful candidate must sign a Confidentiality and Conflict of Interest Form.

QUALIFICATIONS:

Applicants must possess the following qualifications and agree to the following terms:

- Demonstrated experience authoring and reviewing academic works in infection prevention/control, and hospital epidemiology, including scientific articles, book chapters, abstracts, etc.;
- A current (2017) member of IPAC Canada, having held membership for at least 3 years; membership must be retained during the term of the appointment;
- Certification in Infection Control & Epidemiology (CIC®) is preferred;
- Has the time, personal commitment and support of their employer to serve IPAC Canada through this position.

APPLICATION MUST INCLUDE:

- A letter from applicant demonstrating suitability for the position.
- A resumé that includes details as to the candidate's background in Infection Prevention and Control, or another specialized related area.

Applications must be received no later than December 15, 2017
